

Research/ Publications: Dr Omar El-Gaby

2009 – 2010: 'Are there evidence-based strategies in treatment of Antiphospholipid Syndrome in pregnancy?' MSc dissertation in Rheumatology.

2010 – 2011: "Sink or swim": an evaluation of the clinical characteristics of individuals with high bone mass". Responsible for obtaining medical history, performing clinical examinations and assessing inclusion/exclusion criteria.

1996 – 1998 "Apolipoproteins and Lupus Anticoagulants study in Geriatrics." Thesis for partial fulfilment of MD (unpublished), Faculty of Medicine, Ain-Shams University Hospital, Cairo, Egypt

1997 – 1997 "Primary Antiphospholipid Syndrome, as part of the Diploma (unpublished). New clinical picture and recent management, Royal Postgraduate Medical School, Hammersmith Hospital, University of London.

Co-investigator for TRACE RA a multi-centre MRC funded trial. Responsibilities include obtaining medical history, performing clinical examinations, assessment of inclusion/exclusion criteria and CRF signature.

2008 – 2009 'What is the role of Th17 cell in Rheumatic diseases?' as a part of MSc in Rheumatology course. Literature review

2001 – 2002 International, multicentre, randomised, double-blind, double-dummy parallel group active controlled endoscopic study of gastrointestinal effects of CCOX189 with Rheumatoid Arthritis using Ibuprofen and Celecoxib as comparators.

Dated 8.4.2014